IN MEMORY

Who Died To Save the Country.

Aug 23.—The new monument to the sailors who died in the war was dedicated today in the presence of a large crowd. The monument is a fine work of art, and is a fitting tribute to the sailors who died in the war.

CHIEF TOPIC

ntagonistic to American Trusts.

Aug 23.—A private telegram received in a well informed source today, says that the Kaiser and King of Germany will discuss during their visit to Germany the question of a European league to resist American trust competition.

MARK'S GANG IS DAZED

Because His Excellency, Nash, Has Shown Signs of Individuality.

Columbus, O., Aug. 23.—Governor Nash is opposed to Hanna's plan for a perpetual franchise of public service corporations. He says he is for 25 year franchises, and for nothing else. Hanna's political friends are dazed by his stand and say it will cost the Republican party thousands of votes this fall. Senator Patterson, of Pike county, says he is in favor of perpetual franchises. With the council given a right to amend the contract every ten years, the right of the people will be protected. Rev. Dr. Hissey, Hanna's legislative agent, says Hanna does not want the legislature to make grants but merely to authorize councils to grant perpetual franchises.

SOCIETY IN A FLUTTER

On Account of the Annual Effort on the Part of the Astors in Newport.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 23.—Newport is in a flutter on account of the annual effort on the part of the Astors in Newport. Woman Jumps From Fourth Floor to Death.

Four Men Were Also Injured in an Apartment House Disaster This Morning.

New York, Aug. 23.—Mrs. Eva Wendt, hysterical with fright, leaped from the window of the fourth floor of a burning apartment house at 315 West 121st street this morning, and was killed. Four men were injured in the disaster.

TEDDY, TALKS

To Boys in Blue During a Stop in New Hampshire.

Nassau, N. H., Aug. 23.—President Roosevelt stopped here 25 minutes this morning, and spoke to a line of guardsmen. He was in good humor, and he addressed a portion of his remarks to them. "I want to see you with the best weapons, with smokeless powder, and Krags," he said. "But the best weapons on earth will not avail in battle unless there are good men behind them. If you have not the soldier spirit, even though you have the best rifle built, you will be beaten by a good man with a club."

WANTS

Perpetual Franchises Granted.

Hanna's Graft

Would Amount to Something Appalling

If He Could induce the Legislature to Adopt the Measure

Which He Has Made Public at Columbus—What a Soap it Would be for Common Councilmen.

Columbus, Aug. 23.—Senator Mark Hanna outlined his views regarding important questions relating to municipal code. The senator favors perpetual franchises for the street railways of Ohio with the right reserved to council of revising them every 10 years. He advocates the constitutional amendment proposed by Speaker McKelton, providing for a limited classification of the municipalities of the state under the group plan but is opposed to the amendment drawn by Senator Foraker and offered in the senate by Senator Hanna. He indorses the recommendations made by Governor Nash in his message that the work of the present extraordinary session should be confined to the repeal of the Royal law and the enactment of the municipal code. He pronounces the Nash code a good piece of work.

The state board of commerce code was introduced in the house by Mr. Chapman of Montgomery at the request of E. M. Thresher of Dayton, president of the commerce board. It provides for constitutional conventions in each municipality, at which the citizens may create a form of government adapted to their particular needs. The code prepared by Judge George B. Okey of this city for the Democratic minority, was introduced by Mr. York. It is patterned after the board of commerce measure. It provides for a rigid civil service and for municipal ownership of public utilities. Franchises are limited to 25 years, and the maximum rates public service corporations may charge is designated.

The special committee of 10 members, appointed by the house to consider all municipal codes which may be introduced, got down to work in earnest in the old supreme court room. Wade B. Ellis, assistant corporation counsel of Cincinnati, was the first speaker. He took up Nash's code in detail and explained why certain grants had been made and certain limitations imposed. He asserted that under the Nash code there was not a city in the state but would have fewer boards and officers than under the present laws. Special Counsel Bennett followed, saying the governor's code provided for home rule to the fullest extent possible under the constitution. He went deeply into his opinion public grants should be for an unlimited term with the municipality holding the right of revision at stated periods.

The special committee decided to divide the work into divisions with the following subcommittees to look after each subject: Board of public services—Williams of Hamilton, Chapman of Montgomery, Metzger of Stark, Stage of Cuyahoga, Maag of Mahoning. Board of public safety—Denman of Lucas, Silberg of Hamilton, Bracken of Franklin, Repeals—Thomas of Huron, Chapman of Montgomery, Stage of Cuyahoga. Legislative and judiciary—Ponter of Wood, Price of Athens, Silberg of Hamilton, Gear of Wyandot, Hoffman of Butler.

Villages—Worthington of Belmont, Allen of Fulton, Metzger of Stark, Sharp of Fairfield. Almsworth of Defiance. Organization of cities and villages and terms of office—Silberg of Hamilton, Bracken of Franklin, Repeals—Thomas of Huron, Chapman of Montgomery, Stage of Cuyahoga. Health department—Hynes of Clark, Metzger of Belmont, Metzger of Stark, Bracken of Franklin, Bracken of Franklin. Franchises—Cole of Hancock, Gerth of Erie, Denman of Lucas, Hynes of Clark, Sharp of Fairfield.

General Legislation. The senate in committee of the whole appointed two committees as follows: Committee on program to prepare a method of handling the code. Senators Harding, Patterson, Roudsbush, Harris and Krause; committee on repealing clauses, Senators House, Royer, Burnham, Herriek and Patterson. The senate concurred in the adoption of the stage joint resolution pro-

TO A WATERY GRAVE

Go Four Women and a Man Who Were Thrown Out of a Row Boat.

Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 23.—Coming into the waves of the steamer Welcome, in Lake Gogewic last night, four women and a young man in a rowboat were drowned. The dead are Fannie Willis, Toronto, Ont.; Ella Dorsey, Allegheny, Pa.; Fannie Brady, Battle Creek, Mich.; Mabel Richards, Traverse City, Mich., and a Mr. Bennett, of Dallas, Texas. The little craft was struck broadside by the steamer, and its occupants thrown into the water. The bodies of Misses Brady and Richards were recovered, but the others are still in the lake.

TEDDY'S ATTITUDE

Toward Trusts is Taken Seriously by the English Press.

London, Aug. 23.—The Evening Standard comments on President Roosevelt's attitude toward the trusts. It says "President Roosevelt has fairly thrown the gauntlet to the giant evil, the trust system, and the whole world will watch the struggle with breathless interest. The fascination of the struggle springs from the fact that the Republican party power is built up on the support of trusts. Against him, (Roosevelt) are arrayed all the mighty money corporations on his side are young men and the angels. It is a great fight on which depends, in a large measure, the future tranquility and progress of modern civilization."

IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

Teddy and Pals are Today Gathering in Stray Votes They May Need.

Concord, N. H., Aug. 23.—The capital city of New Hampshire is in gala attire. Visitors have flocked into town from miles around in anticipation of the coming of President Roosevelt, whose special train is scheduled to arrive here late this afternoon from the Weirs, where the President addresses state soldiers reunion this forenoon. At the Weirs the Presidential party was welcomed by Governor Jordan, Secretary of State Pearson and the Governors' staff who will act as escort to this city. The stay in Concord is to be brief and the only feature will be the appearance of the President at the state fair grounds where it is expected he will deliver a short speech. Within two hours of the time of his arrival, the President is scheduled to leave for Newbury, where he and Secretary Cortelyou will pass the night as guests of Secretary Haw. Tomorrow the itinerary will be through Vermont where elaborate plans are making for the reception of the distinguished visitors by the cities of Burlington, Montpelier and other places where stops are to be made.

HOMELESS

Are Eight Hundred Miners' Families.

Work is Resumed in Two Mines Today and Strikers Did Not Interfere.

Hazleton, Pa., Aug. 23.—Cranberry washery and No. 40 colliery resumed work today without interference. The threatened raid on the colliery by Panther Creek strikers, failed to materialize. All the available deputies were massed at the colliery in anticipation of trouble. The output at the mines is small at present, but operators say that they expect more men to report during the day.

TURNED OUT.

Fourteen Hundred Miners Have no Shelter but the Blue Sky.

Fayetteville, W. Va., Aug. 23.—Officers evicted about 1,400 miners from their homes in the New River and Kanawha districts yesterday. They had trouble at Red Ash, Chapman and Rends. Several shots were fired at Red Ash, but no serious damage was done. Two houses were burned at Chapman. Prosecuting attorney Oseten wired the Governor for tents but was refused. Eight hundred families are without homes and are camped out on the hills, without protection from the elements.

VALUABLES

Alleged to Have Been Stolen From Side Show Woman.

Connersville, Ind., Aug. 23.—A man giving the name of Becker, was arrested here on a charge of robbing Mrs. Ellsworth of $400 in money and diamonds, valued at $100. The woman runs a side show with the Wallace circus and last night while the performance was in progress, it is charged that Becker crawled under the canvas and grabbed a satchel containing her valuables. He was captured later but the booty was not recovered.

MORE

Soldiers Have Been Called Out.

Panther Creek

Valley the Scene of a Serious Condition

And Two Companies Were Sent There to Protect Property.

Operators Say They Will Not Arbitrate the Case and Will Gradually and Quietly Open the Mines.

Tamaqua, Pa., Aug. 23.—The situation in the Panther Creek valley is serious. Wednesday night the streets of Lansford and Summit Hill were thronged with strikers. Two companies of the Twelfth regiment were sent through the valley on a trolley car. All along the line the soldiers were booed and jeered, and it was not deemed prudent to take them off the cars. While Mary Markley was carrying supper to her brother, who is employed at a colliery near Lansford, she was set upon and severely beaten by a crowd of women. The civil authorities express the belief that a serious clash will occur between the troops and the strikers. The fact that the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company is holding out its No. 4 colliery has greatly incensed the mine workers.

The timely arrival of a detachment of soldiers on the scene at Shannock averted a serious outbreak. A nonunion workman named Quinn was attacked by a crowd of strikers near the Cambridge colliery, at the lower end of the city, and was being roughly handled when two of his friends rushed to his assistance and kept the crowd back with drawn revolvers. In a few minutes all three were surrounded by a crowd of several hundred men and boys, and only the timely arrival of Provost Marshal Farquhar with a detail of soldiers from the Eighth regiment prevented serious trouble. Joseph Peharich, who jeered the soldiers, was arrested.

WRESTLERS

After Careful Training Will Meet Tonight.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Considerable interest is manifested in sporting circles in the wrestling match between Harvey Parker and Max Wiley, the former amateur welterweight champion, which takes place here tonight. Since the match was made, both men have been training faithfully and an interesting contest is expected to be the result. The articles call for a catch-as-catch-can bout, best two in three falls, for $250 a side and a percentage of the gate receipts.

LOG ROLLING

In Missouri is Largely Attended by Woodmen.

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 23.—The meeting of the Central Missouri Log Rolling association in progress here today is one of the largest in point of attendance ever held by the Modern Woodmen in this part of the state. Head Consul W. A. Nothcutt, of Illinois and other visitors of note are in attendance and the teams competing for the prizes come from Kansas City, Clinton, Sedalia, St. Charles, Mexico, Louisiana, Joplin and elsewhere throughout the state.

STATE TROOPS

Sent to Quell Disturbance Caused by Miners.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Aug. 23.—The situation in the New River district is so serious that the Second regiment state troops are now enroute to quell the trouble which began yesterday, when evicted miners fired on the deputies. A special train will take the regiment to the New River coal fields.

LAKE MERCER

Still Shows a Decreasing Volume of Water.

What has become of the water in Lake Mercer? It is still first and foremost among the leading topics of discussion. Several miles from town, in the vicinity of the Netherland farm, Lake Mercer still presents an attractive appearance. There are no projecting stupas to mark the surface of the pond, and the view of the water is all that can be desired.

But it cannot be denied that Lake Mercer is losing its old time picturesque aspect as viewed from the foot of Main street, and the water has receded many feet from the high water mark to which the oldest inhabitants call your attention when they recall the big pond as it once was in the pride and majesty of the 17,000 acres of its submerged surface. Some hundreds of those acres are now dry land, very dry, so much so that they show no signs of ever having been inundated.

Various reasons are assigned for the disappearance of the water. It is of course alleged in part to the excessive evaporation that was in progress during the long protracted drought of the past few years. The rainfall of the present summer, however, has done little or nothing to augment the diminishing water supply. The theorists of the community like to interest themselves and others by advancing the idea that the water has found its way down the abandoned, unplugged oil wells that are located in numbers in the pond. But as all our modern inventions have not yet been equal to the task of furnishing us reliable news from the interior of the earth, the standard is not in a position to substantiate this theory. Meanwhile the fact remains visibly in evidence that the big pond bids fair to solve the problem of drainage that so disturbed the legislators last session by draining itself in some mysterious way. —Cincinnati Standard.

MR. MORGAN ABROAD

Now a Plain American Citizen Made a Triumphant Tour.

Who Received by Emperors, Kings and Statesmen With Honors (and by Received For Royal Personages. A Notable Vacation.

J. Pierpont Morgan, who has just returned to his native land after a tour of Europe beginning last April, has demonstrated during his trip abroad that commerce is now the sovereign ruler of the world.

Mr. Morgan's tour of Europe may truly be said to have been triumphant. Wherever he went he was received with honors usually accorded only to royalty. Emperors, kings, princes and potentates, great and small, did what they could in paying court to this mighty man of money, who seems to be known all over the world as the greatest of the world.

Mr. Morgan's first stop on reaching Britain, where he was met by the British ambassador, was at the great sailing establishment, which has been a great success in the hands of the British government.

During his brief stay in London Mr. Morgan had a private audience with King Edward, met Lord Salisbury, then premier of England, and had a conference with the first lord of the admiralty and the head of the board of trade, these two chiefs of state departments being anxious that this plain American should assure them, which he did, that his aims were inspired only by good will toward humanity in general and that he had no desire to injure the British mercantile marine.

Crossing the Alps to Paris, Mr. Morgan found that he was still an important personage. He was waited on by the French premier, M. Waldeck-Rousseau, who was more than anxious to know if the "steel king" had designs on the commerce of France. Mr. Morgan could spare but ten minutes of his time to the great man of the French republic.

Sojourning for a time at Aix-les-Bains, the American steel king was summoned again to London, Ambassador White having informed him that his majesty of England earnestly desired to meet him at dinner. Three days later he stretched his legs under molasses with King Edward, receiving the greeting of equality with which one sovereign greets another.

On this occasion King Edward took Mr. Morgan aside, and for half an hour they were engaged in earnest conversation. The purport of this conversation is not known and perhaps never will be, but it is related by those present that the king pled Mr. Morgan with questions, which apparently were answered with frank directness.

The next day Mr. Morgan boarded his yacht, the Corsair, and proceeded to Trieste. There he found an invitation from the emperor of Austria, asking the honor of his presence at Vienna. This the dutiful American was obliged to decline, he having arranged to return to London to see Edward crowned.

"King of Great Britain and Ireland" under the shadow of a million and a quarter dollars' worth of tapestry lent by Mr. Morgan himself.

The coronation having been postponed, Mr. Morgan again joined the Corsair, proceeding to Ostend, where the king of Belgium paid homage to the mercurial monarch.

Steaming thence to Kiel in response to an imperial invitation from the kaiser, Mr. Morgan lunched and dined aboard the imperial yacht Hohenzollern and had two long conferences with the German emperor. Later he confessed that he had been impressed with the kaiser, for whom he condescended to say he entertained a liking.

After having been feted by the imperial chancellor, Count von Bulow, at Berlin, he again returned to London, where he spent the time quietly, King Edward being ill. He found time, however, to purchase a new London mansion and spent about $1,500,000 for old silver, which is now on exhibition for the benefit of a hospital fund.

Just previous to his sailing for this country Mr. Morgan was bidden to a dinner at the house of commons to meet the Hon. Arthur Balfour, the new premier of England.

Such was the summer vacation of J. Pierpont Morgan, a plain American citizen, but who nevertheless is considered by the anointed kings of Europe as great a man as themselves.

GOT HIS DISCHARGE.

Things Came Just Right for the Naval Machinist.

An Incident of a Three Years' Cruise on the Vermont Which Goes to Show How Small, After All, This Great World of Ours Really Is.

Several years ago a quiet young chap shipped as a machinist in the navy aboard the receiving ship Vermont at the Brooklyn navy yard. He gave San Francisco as his place of nativity. He was assigned to a cruiser about to start for the China station by the Suez canal route. He was a crack mechanic and very soon showed the engineers that he knew how to earn his rate and wages. He never said much about himself. He wasn't anything of what is called a "man-of-war" type, and although he had been up and down the vessel a good deal, he let others do the talking. He was perhaps the quietest man in the American navy at the time he served.

His ship got to the Asiatic station all right and cruised back and forth there between China and Japan for close on to three years. Then she was ordered back to the United States. She had a lot of "overtime" man aboard of her by that time, sailors whose time had expired, but who preferred to wait until they reached the United States before they took their discharge. When the ship was ordered back home, a lot of overtime men from other ships on the Asiatic station were sent to her to be brought back to this country.

This machinist—call him Beall—had just 21 days left of his three year enlistment when the ship left Yokohama for San Francisco via the Hawaiian Islands. All of the overtime men were talking about their trip around from San Francisco to New York by passenger steamer. They had all shipped on the Brooklyn navy yard, and the navy always sends men to the point whence it takes them when they enlist unless they "waive transportation" for the purpose of stopping off at an intermediary point.

It took the ship 14 days to "fetch up" Honolulu from Yokohama, and then Beall, the machinist, had five days yet to serve.

"Are you going to waive transportation and drop off at San Francisco, or are you going around to New York with us?" the men asked him when the ship pulled into Honolulu.

"Don't know yet," the machinist replied.

After coaling at Honolulu—which took four days, done leisurely—the skipper of the ship decided to take a bit of a run around the Hawaiian Islands before up anchoring for San Francisco. Beall's time expired on the morning that his ship was headed for Lihala, on the island of Maui, a little bit of about 85 miles from Honolulu. The ship dropped her anchor within about 500 yards of the Lihala beach along toward 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The island of Maui is very beautiful to look upon—a veritable gem of the ocean, if such a one was ever fashioned by the hand of the creator. Beall, the machinist, was off watch and standing on the pier to greet the ship's crew, smoking his pipe to the ship's cast her anchor off Lihala. There was some longing in his quiet gray eyes. He knocked the ashes out of his pipe, stretched his arms and then walked down to the mainmast and told the officer of the deck that he wanted to see the commanding officer. The commanding officer came out of his cabin.

"What is it, my man?" he asked the machinist.

"My time is out, sir," said the machinist. "I guess I'll take my discharge here."

The commanding officer looked surprised.

"This is rather a queer notion," he said. "You shipped in New York, did you not? I should think you would want to get back to the United States after your three years on the China station. Or, at any rate, that you would prefer to wait until we get back to Honolulu, if you want to waive transportation and take your discharge down here among the islands. Why do you want your discharge today and here?"

The machinist smiled as he replied: "Because this island here, Maui, is my home. At this moment my father and mother and seven brothers and sisters are on this island. They are at a place not very far from Lihala, called Spreckelsville. The girl that I am going to marry is also there. I was born in Prisco, but my father came down to this island as engineer of a sugar plantation when I was 2 years old. None of them know that I am within just a few miles of home now. I want to give them a little surprise. I waive transportation, and I'll take my discharge now."

The commanding officer listened to the recital with interest.

"Of course, we'll give you your discharge, son," he said, "although I'm sorry to lose you, and I had hoped you might ship over. Close mouthed men are wanted in the navy. You owe us some thanks, I think, for starting you off at New York, taking you around the world for three years and then fetching you up within an hour or so of your home on the very day your time is out. To all intents and purposes, we have been a yacht for you."

It was rather a remarkable happening for a fact. The machinist packed his things and went over the side, amid the pleasant salutations of the men, about two hours later, with his bag and hammock and a couple of thousand dollars in gold, his savings during the cruise. A couple of hours later he was with his people and his sweetheart in Spreckelsville. It is a small world.—Washington Star.

of special note were D. S. Oakes, J. L. Hughes and Hon. Wm. Ressler, all of whom interested their hearers, their remarks being very good. The recitations by Ray Rankin, Ula Franklin, Anna Coates and Bonnie Miller, were excellent. The reunion was one of the largest, happiest and most successful ever held in Allen county.

Children's Day Preparations.
Many children congregated at Solar lodge room this afternoon to be drilled in a literary entertainment to be given for the benefit of the inmates of the Odd Fellows Orphan Home, at Springfield. Competent ladies are in charge of the program which will be an excellent one. It is quite probable that the superintendent of the home will attend the exercises, accompanied by a small class of interesting entertainers, who have been especially educated along the musical as well as literary lines. The local committee are determined to make this years entertainment one of the best ever given under the auspices of Solar lodge.

Dinner Party.
Mrs. Henry Castle, of west Vine street charmingly entertained a number of lady friends at a well appointed dinner party in compliment to her guest Mrs. William Jones, of Indianapolis, Ind.

Meet at St. Marys.
At the conclusion of the reunion of company E. 118 C. V. L. at J. B. Kennedy's, on east Second street, yesterday, it was decided to hold the next annual reunion at the home of James Kelley, at St. Marys, the exact date not yet having been definitely decided upon.

To Attend Reunion.
Dr. Daniel Cramer, of south Main street, accompanied by his wife, left this morning for Mansfield, where the doctor will be engaged several days upon important business incident to the settlement of his deceased father's estate. The first of next week, a family reunion will be held at the old homestead. The affair will be attended by a large number of relatives. Others from here who will attend are George and John Cramer of this city.

Started a Fire.
Several small boys residing on St. Johns avenue, yesterday afternoon ignited a pool of crude oil in the immediate vicinity of the well on south Union street. The flames were so intense when Ismail Combs, who has charge of the pumping of the well, discovered the fire. By a heroic effort, he subdued the flames, which were in alarming proximity to the tanks. He says that had the fire remained undiscovered, the entire plant with its contents would have been destroyed.

A New Firm.
William and Charles Little of Greer Hill today bought of Goodfellow & Co. their grocery store on south Main street. The new firm has already taken possession. They will close on the stock then begin business upon an enlarged scale in the new location, on west Kibby street. The new proprietors are excellent young men who will be a credit to local commercial circles.

New Century Club.
Mrs. Sophia Fletcher, was hostess to the New Century club at her home near McBeth's this afternoon. Those present enjoyed the generous hospitality of Mrs. Fletcher who proved herself a jolly entertainer.

TRIBUTE
To Memory of William
Fleming
Is Paid by a Toledo Oil
Correspondent.

Deceased Was a Veteran of the Civil War and After the War Became Engaged in the Oil Industry.

The death of Mr. Wm. Fleming, writes "W. J. M." of the Toledo Times, which occurred at Cincinnati last Saturday night, was a surprise to the oil people of these northern regions. It was known that he was a sufferer from that untiring destroyer, Bright's disease, but no one was prepared for the sad news of his departure to his final reward. Mr. Fleming was known throughout the whole oil country as a man of lofty character, respected by every one who knew him personally.

It can be said that he had fewer enemies and more friends than any other man in the business. His integrity was of the strictest order, and the trust reposed in him by the great corporation of which he was at the beginning the moving spirit, was ample proof of his perfect faith in his honesty as well as ability. The Ohio Oil company was in a sense made by the mind of William Fleming. In his name for years the business was conducted. When the name of the Ohio Oil company was adopted, he became its president, which position he held until failing health demanded a change.

At the breaking out of the Civil war, Mr. Fleming entered the ranks for the preservation of the union, and at the close of the conflict, came to the oil country and engaged at once in the great industry in which he became before his ending an important factor.

He was a man of fine temperament and seemed to enjoy the blessings that came to him in life with the greatest of pleasure. He was heard one day to remark that he did not know of anything in life that he had really enjoyed that did not come to him. Wealth never influenced him, as it has done with many men of weaker character. He was a noble specimen among men. It is indeed sad to have to relate this story. Such men should live forever. But it is said the pure and the good take an early departure. He has come to his reward, the reward of the just.

After all the states France has presented to the United States, it seems almost cruel to suspect that that country would take any advantage of us in the Panama canal deal.

Novel Use For Automobile.
Automobile has made great progress in England, as in other countries, during the last few years, owing to a large extent to the passage of the act permitting the use of "locomotives on highways." It is, however, probable that none of the enthusiasts who supported that measure and who prophesied a great future for the automobile had any idea of the variety of uses to which the now popular vehicle would be put. It has been in many remarkable places and has performed many remarkable feats and has been put to some remarkable uses, but never until quite recently has it been made to act as a pulpit, says the New York Herald. This was the new use found for the automobile at the Colechester volunteer maneuvers, and to the chaplain of the Third Essex volunteers belongs the distinction of being the first to conduct a religious service from so strange a pulpit.

Chewing Tobacco a Necessity.
Justice Brown of Joplin has rendered a decision which will win for him the gratitude and admiration of every man who uses the weed, says the Kansas City Journal. The city is trying to compel its merchants to keep their stores closed on Sunday. The law permits the necessities of life to be sold on the Sabbath. During the trial of a test case it was proved that a grocer had sold chewing tobacco. His attorney immediately raised the point that chewing tobacco was a necessity of life, and the court sustained him and said the man had a right to keep his store open to sell that indispensable commodity. Oh, wise judge!

Not Over-Wise.
There is an old allegorical picture of a girl scared at a grass-hopper, but in the act of heedlessly treading on a snake. This is paralleled by the man who spends a large sum of money building a cyclone cellar, but neglects to provide his family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a safeguard against bowel complaints, whose victims outnumber those of the cyclone a hundred to one. This remedy is everywhere recognized as the most prompt and reliable medicine in use for these diseases. For sale by W. M. Melville, old post office corner.

MR. ROOSEVELT TALKS ABOUT TRUSTS.

President Roosevelt delivered a large number of words on the trust question at Providence, R. I., the other day at the very outset of his New England tour. He did not attempt to consider Mr. Hanna's declaration that "there are no trusts" nor did he appear to take the other view that such as we have are to any great extent dangerous. In truth, for glittering generalities, for a great volume of words with an absence of meaning, this Providence speech of the president eclipses anything he or any other person in our recollection has uttered on the subject. The one suggestion made, of publicity as a remedy for monopoly, Mr. Roosevelt borrowed from another and not a Republican statesman. Aside from this the speech disclosed nothing, either of the speaker's attitude on the trust question or of the question itself; indeed, the reader is unwillingly driven to the conclusion that he did not intend to disclose anything touching either of these subjects.

Perhaps, however, Mr. Roosevelt, in view of his political affiliations, is not to be held wholly responsible for the fact that his administration has not dealt more vigorously than the question than as an administration of J. P. Morgan as president might be expected to do. No Republican president with a Republican congress "on his hands" can accomplish anything in the direction of a curtailment of the privileges of monopoly, even if he would. Such a congress would not permit it if they attempted; the political machinery of the party would not permit it and the effort would be simply so much wasted energy. The obligations of the Republican party to the creators of its campaign funds are too great, the association of its leaders with the lords of monopoly is too intimate and the history of its successes is too closely related to the progress of trusts to admit of its becoming an instrumentality for the correction of industrial evils. So far as the ability to accomplish anything is concerned there is no opposition to the trusts outside of the Democratic party.

"What do you read, my lord?" inquired Polonius of Hamlet.

"Words, words, words," replied the melancholy Dane; and that is all we read nowadays in any Republican speech on the trust question, whether delivered by a president or cross-roads statesman—Columbus Citizen.

HITTING THE FARMER HARD.

While all the trusts now in operation reached the farmer indirectly in the advanced prices of farm material there is one in process of formation that will go directly for his pockets and hit him hard. This is the harvester trust, and while it is not proposed to cover everything in the reaper and mower line, the manager of the combine says that it will handle

30 per cent. of the business of the country. The corporate name of the trust is the International Harvester Company, and its purpose is to move against the whole world. It claims to have a capitalization of $120,000,000 and it proposes to inaugurate for itself a philanthropic enterprise which is outlined as follows:

The manufacturers realize that their welfare and the interest of the farmers are identical. An advance in the price of agricultural machinery would injure the farmers and react upon the manufacturers. But, on the other hand, if existing conditions continue, an advance in prices would have been inevitable. It thus became necessary that either the prices should be advanced or that substantial economies should be effected in the manufacture and distribution of the agricultural machinery.

One of the proposed economies is that under the trust formation 10,000 employees will lose their situations and have to scuffle as best they can for bread and butter. Ten thousand skilled workmen thrown out of their life-long employment is no small matter but it is the way of the trusts. These discharged men may go into the harvester business again and endeavor to compete with the trust by selling farm machinery at lower prices, but it will be difficult for them to do so against a combine that has a capital of $120,000,000.

The harvester trust is organized under the liberal trust laws of New Jersey, and will soon be ready for operations. We are harvesting agricultural products in this great country twelve months in the year. The harvester trust expects to control production in the United States and Canada, and do it all for the benefit of the farmers! It will not only turn out all the machinery needed by the farmer, but will also deal in farm products, buying and selling. The farmers who will make money out of this gigantic enterprise will be the horny-handed and conscienceless farmers of Wall Street and kindred districts.

Evidence is not lacking, however, that the real farmers of the country are preparing to enter into a combination themselves for the purpose of knocking out the protective tariff that shelters trusts and makes their existence possible. The tariff revision movement is daily gaining strength in the great agricultural states of the country and in order to save their political bacon prominent leaders of the Republican party in those states are declaring for revision. For example Representative Heathcote of Minnesota, who aspires to the governorship of that commonwealth and has declined reelection to congress after eight years of service, says the people of the northwest have become tired of paying excessive prices for protected trust goods which are sold cheaper in the foreign than the home market, and are beginning to realize also that the foreign trade of the northwest, especially in food products, will be greatly diminished if not entirely destroyed unless some of the tariff schedules are reduced. Aside from this nearly every Republican newspaper in the northwest favors tariff revision and with much truth charge that the present tariff schedules have been made in the interest of the eastern manufacturers without any regard whatever for the welfare of other sections of the country. Thus the tariff revision movement goes forward gaining a force that will soon be irresistible. Such Republican leaders as Senator Cullom, Governor Cummins and Representatives Heathcote and Tawney have noted the gathering storm and are wisely getting under cover and advising their political friends to do likewise.—New Orleans States.

More Troops Ordered Out.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 28.—The second troop, Philadelphia city cavalry, was ordered by Governor Stone to report to General Gobin at Shenandoah for duty in the anthracite coal regions. The troop will take the place of the governor's troop of Harrisburg, which was sent by General Gobin from Shenandoah to Lansford, where there have been serious disturbances. The request for the city troop was made by General Gobin, and the governor immediately directed that the troop start for Shenandoah and assist the militia now in the field to protect life and property.

Mining Coal.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 28.—The coal operators in the Wyoming region continue to make gains. The Avondale mine of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company sent 250 tons of coal to the breaker. It is also said that over 100 tons were mined at the Dorrance colliery of the Lehigh Valley Coal company. President Mitchell and the district president, Messrs. Nichols, Duffy and Faby, were in conference again.

A NEWSPAPER SCOOP

HOW IT WAS OBTAINED WITHOUT ANY DEPARTMENT LEAK.

Source of information of which the Agent and Quick Witted Correspondent is Always Ready to Take Longtime Advantage.

"Every once in a while one reads in the newspapers of the determination of some one of the high government officials to discover the source of the 'leak' of a piece of news which it was not desired should be given out at that particular time," remarked an old Washington correspondent, "and without giving the solution to the secret escapes of public information, as they vary, I will tell you of one instance which serves to show how news appears in print in what is considered by all concerned to be a very mysterious manner. Like all my stories, when unraveled it is considered that it was not thought of before. My story is entirely a part of the secret sources of information which all correspondents have more or less at their disposal and which often comes from the outside and not from the inside of the departments.

"Some time ago—the precise time is not essential to the story—a very important public matter was up for determination by the president. All of the larger metropolitan dailies were particularly interested, as it did not have to do especially with Washington, and the entire correspondents' world at the capital was on the qui vive to 'get it,' including myself. All channels which were usually tapped by the initiated were found to be as barren as a desert stream in midsummer. Telegrams from the home offices poured into our various bureaus here couched in imperative language that the news 'must' be obtained, evidently in the belief that all correspondents have to do is to go out, ask officials for the desired information and receive it, coupled with a good cigar and a bottle of wine. As a matter of fact, when officials wish to keep secret a piece of information, all possible loopholes of escape are securely plugged, and it is the exception that it gets out.

"I had about given up hope of securing a 'beat' in this particular instance, though I was, of course, as vigilant as ever. The time for the maturing of the project was close at hand, and any day it might by official announcement become public property. One night as I was sitting idly in the lobby of an up-town hotel, half dozing in my chair, waiting for the appearance of a senator with whom I had an appointment on an inconsequential matter, I overheard one of two gentlemen who were sitting behind me drop the words 'the president.' The high backs of our chairs nearly touched, and by instinct my drooping senses became clear and I woke up.

"The president," remarked one of the gentlemen, "said that it was his intention to adopt that course irrespective of the consequences either to himself or the party."

"But you pointed out to him what it meant to us—that he was clearly in error," replied the other gentleman.

"Elaborately," responded the first speaker, "but the president said that he was convinced that accruing results would prove that we, and not he, were in error."

"Then we may as well go back to New York tomorrow," was the answer, and both gentlemen arose and walked toward the cafe, apparently in a very despondent frame of mind.

"I was an involuntary listener to this scrap of conversation, in which, it will be observed, not a single word was dropped as to the subject matter thereof. I at once jumped to the conclusion that the government, through the president's action, intended to take the affirmative of the proposition, the news side of which the correspondents had so long and earnestly endeavored to ascertain. With a straight tip as to the course of the government the correspondent could do the rest, while with the wrong tip he could not only make his paper ridiculous, but would in all probability lose his position; hence the care in making a scarce head, page wide story.

"In the furtherance of my conclusion my paper had the 'beat' of the season the following morning, as I stated the facts as though they came from official sources, as, indeed, such I considered them. To my mind, as a correspondent, it was as clear as if the president himself had given me the information. Two days after a member of the cabinet gave out officially what I had wired over and with it the announcement that the 'leak' had occasioned much annoyance, and its source would be investigated thoroughly." It is here given correctly for the first time.—Washington Star.

What the Hair Tells.

Women who are the possessors of one black hair are emotional and of very sensitive nerves. Coarse black hair is said to denote great energy, but an unenviable disposition. Women who have brown hair make the best wives, for they are almost invariably full of sentiment, impassioned, "high strung," loyal and easily affected. Red haired people are nearly always keen in business transactions, quick of perception, high tempered and witty. The woman who has blond hair is impulsive and loving, but usually fickle, although an agreeable companion.—Pittsburgh Press.

An Appetizer.

Gentleman at restaurant—I say, waiter, your customers are a fearfully noisy lot!

"Yes, sir, and yet they are no particular, you would scarcely believe. Why, that same tubert you are eating now, that was no fewer than six of them when he was here."

TRUST EVILS

Against the Theme of an Address by President Roosevelt.

Manassas, N. H., Aug. 28.—President Roosevelt entered this state after a triumphal two-days' tour of Maine. Everywhere the chief executive was accorded a hearty welcome, to which he responded in a characteristic way. At Bangor, Me., he again referred to the trust question, saying:

"Some of the evils alleged against trusts are imaginary, others are very real. Certainly the change produced along a number of lines by the increase of power of these corporations, by their increase in magnitude, is not a change that most of us welcome. There is every reason why we should resolutely declare our purpose, and put into effect our purpose to more cognizance of the evils and find out which evils are real and which are imaginary, and to find out what legislative or administrative expedients can be employed to minimize or to do away with those evils. But the one thing sure is that if we try to apply those expedients which in any way border upon the hypothetical, we are going to fail. I want to see the law used to cut out the evil, but I want to see it used so that it will be more dangerous to the disease than to the patient. You can perfectly well reduce the prosperity of the trusts by reducing the prosperity of everybody. But we want to devise some method by which we can minimize any evil they do without interfering with the general prosperity, which is a benefit to all. I believe that the men of great means should understand that when we demand some method of asserting the power of the nation over all corporations, we are acting not against their interest, but in their interest."

American Generals in Berlin.

Berlin, Aug. 28.—Major General Corbin and Major General Young of the United States army, who, with Brigadier General Wood are attending the army maneuvers, their aides and Mrs. Corbin and Mrs. Johnson, arrived here and found at their hotel Emperor William's invitations to attend the gala opera performance on Thursday. His majesty has intimated that he will be pleased to receive the American generals in audience at an early date, but the time is not specified, doubtless because the emperor is occupied in entertaining the king of Italy.

Whitneys Riddled.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 28.—John Reil, a farmer living south of Lewistown, took fearful revenge upon George Fredericks and Jacob Stange, neighbors who were endeavoring to hound him in a white-skin style. He shot and brutally killed Fredericks and fatally wounded Stange. They had prepared far and fetched but he managed to reach his gun before they could get Stange was shot in the back and Reil will be held for his murder.

Lutherans Elect.

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 28.—The Evangelical Lutheran synod elected officers for the ensuing two years as follows: President, C. H. L. Schaeffer, D. D., of Columbus, German secretary, Professor D. W. Ahl of St. Paul; English secretary, Rev. W. H. Price, Detroit; treasurer, C. Nagel, Springfield, O.; general institution treasurer, Fred J. Her, Columbus, O.

Colored Strike Breakers.

Lebanon, Pa., Aug. 28.—The 60 colored strike breakers brought here from Reading were put to work in the plant of the American Iron and Steel company here without opposition from those on strike, though trouble was feared. Immediately thereafter 25 molders employed by the company quit because they would not work with colored men.

Head of the Augustinians.

New York, Aug. 28.—Father Rodriguez, general of the Augustinians, arrived from Rome on the steamer Liguria. He was met at quarantine by Father Murphy of the Augustinian monastery at Tompkinsville, Staten Island. He will proceed directly to Washington.

COMBINATION

Of German Iron and Steel Makers to Capture the World's Markets.

Washington, Aug. 28.—The iron and steel makers of Germany now have a combination behind them which will enable them to continue, with better chances for ultimate success, their stubborn and persistent fight in the markets of Europe, South and Central America, Africa and the east. This fact is brought out in a report from United States Consul General Frank Mason at Berlin, dated Aug. 1, which was made public at the state department. The consul general reports that a union was formed between the coal and iron interests to provide export bounties among the leading syndicates in the metal and mining industries.

Steamships in Collision.

New York, Aug. 28.—In broad daylight and bright sunshine a collision, which might have resulted in a dreadful calamity, occurred in New York harbor between an incoming passenger liner and an outbound freight steamer. The steamship Liguria of the Italian Royal Mail Steamship company, with over 1,000 persons on board, was run down in the narrows by the British steamer Peconic of the Mediterranean and New York Steamship company, bound out for ports in the Mediterranean. A succession of whistle blasts was followed by a tremendous crash, and the Peconic's bow smashed into the hull of the Liguria just forward of the foremast. The Italian's hull was cut to the water's edge and water poured into the aperture. The Liguria was able to proceed to her dock. Captain Montana of the Liguria by his coolness averted a panic among the passengers.

Bank Teller Under Arrest.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 28.—H. H. Brinker, formerly receiving teller of the German National bank, is in jail charged with embezzlement. The amount of the shortage charged to him is $20,500, which, it is claimed, the bank was defrauded of by Brinker manipulating the deposit slips. After crediting a depositor in his book, the teller would destroy the slip and fail to enter it in his own books. Cashier Ramsey of the bank says the incident is closed so far as the bank is concerned, as the Mercantile Trust company who was on Brinker's bond for $15,000 settled in full in July last since which time Brinker has been trying to pay the trust company. As the payments on the bond since then have been comparatively small, the company decided to place Brinker in prison as a defaulter. Speculation in stocks is credited with being the teller's downfall.

Desires of Trampmen.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 28.—A. Infant Grand Master Lee of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, who is a true that a concerted movement to be inaugurated by the men, and conductors' chapters in the west of the Missouri system, to secure uniform rules and regulations. A vote of the men, which will probably result in the election of the men to conventions to be held at St. Louis, sent requests to the men to vote for these conventions a new law. It will, however, be at least 21 days before the vote has been completed. There is absolutely no talk of a strike and the possibility of such a movement is extremely remote.

White Republican Convention.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 28.—Leading Republicans of Alabama have addressed letters to Senator Albert J. Beveridge and Congressman Charles F. Landis of Indiana, inviting them to attend the Republican state convention in Birmingham Sept. 16. This will be the first exclusive white Republican state convention since the civil war. Republican leaders will endeavor to bring out a large number of men who have in the past remained out of the party because of the preponderance of negroes.

New French Minister.

Copenhagen, Aug. 28.—Constantin Brun, the Danish minister to the United States, has started on his return to Washington. M. Jusserand, the French minister to Denmark, who is to be the new French ambassador at Washington, probably will not start for the United States for two months.

Norri's Army Repulsed.

Cape Haitien, Aug. 28.—General Albert Salnave, commander of the Artibonite-Firmité troops, has repulsed the army under General Norri of the provisional government, and is at present master of Limbe district.

THIS AND THAT.

Crisp Items of Information From Every Clime.

Klondike washery at Trescow, Pa., was destroyed by fire. Loss $7,000.

Strike of machinists of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe declared off. Seventeen persons injured in a collision between electric cars on the Youngstown and Sharon railway.

After attempting to kill his wife, Dora, and his stepdaughter, Lillian Cohen, David Segal committed suicide at Boston.

Famous Kentucky Association race-course at Lexington has been purchased by J. B. Haggin for a private training ground.

Safe and vault in the courthouse at Ipswich, S. D., was robbed of $2,700, presumably by some one familiar with the office. All in gold.

Lizelle Hall, 24, and Joseph Campbell are dead, and an unknown man is dying in Bellevue hospital, New York, the result, the police say, of a quarrel in the woman's apartments.

OHIO OHIO.

The Haps and Mishaps of a Day.

Cincinnati, Aug. 28.—Pitcher Bob Ewing signed a contract to play with the Cincinnati baseball club next year. Outfielder Sam Crawford declined to sign when seen by President Herrmann. The president will have another conference with him today, and if he refuses to sign it is probable he will be released before the team starts on its eastern trip. It is believed that he has signed with the American league for next year, but he declines to make any statement whatever regarding the matter.

Child Upset the Lamp.

Dayton, O., Aug. 28.—Mrs. Sarah R. Harris died from the effect of burns received by a coal oil lamp exploding. Mrs. Harris was holding her grandchild on her lap and the child was playing with the lamp in an unguarded moment the child jerked the lamp over on her grandmother's lap. The lamp exploded, setting fire to the woman's clothing. The child was uninjured.

Republican Campaign Opening.

Columbus, Aug. 28.—Chairman Dick of the Republican state executive committee announced after the conference with Governor Nash and Senator Hanna that the formal opening of the Republican campaign will take place Saturday, Sept. 27, in a town yet to be designated. Senators Hanna and Foraker, it is announced, will devote nearly all their time to the campaign.

Suspects Arrested.

Toledo, Aug. 28.—Anthony Trice, alias Brevy, 27, and Mrs. Ollie Herman of the same age were arrested on suspicion of having murdered Peter Rolley, the farmer who was found dead with his head hacked to pieces. Detectives who made the arrest claim that the ax which was found beside Rolley was taken from the woodpile where the couple lived.

Farmer Found Dead.

Canton, O., Aug. 28.—Joseph Strz, 67, was found dead near Beach City 10 miles south of here, under circumstances which are being investigated. He and his wife separated about a year ago and he had been living on a farm near Beach City. The body was found in a fence corner and a revolver lying near it.

Governor's Proclamation.

Columbus, Aug. 28.—Governor Nash has issued a proclamation upon the death of former Governor Isaac C. Hays, announcing that Mr. Hays was a member of the state committee on the subject of the strike. Mr. Hays was a member of the committee and was a member of the strike.

To Present His Own Name.

Bellefontaine, O., Aug. 28.—General A. Sanders, D. D., brother of Hon. J. M. Sanders, author, journalist and statesman who died several days ago, will present his own name to the state Democratic convention for the nomination for governor of Ohio.

Schoolmate of McKinley.

Xenia, O., Aug. 28.—Homer Logan, 67, is dead. He was a schoolmate of William McKinley and later went west with a ranch owner. He was a second under sheriff for many years.

Denial of Boer Generals.

Amsterdam, Aug. 28.—The Boer generals have issued a statement declaring there is no truth in the reports of differences between themselves and Mr. Kruger. Dr. Leyds and the Boer delegates in Europe add that their relations with him continue to be most harmonious.

Killed in Three Months

Is the Record

Made by Railroads in the United States.

First Quarterly Publication Under New Law is Issued to the Public.

Nearly 10,000 Trainmen and Passengers Injured in the Same Length of Time—The Accidents as Classified.

Since the law passed a year and a half ago made it the duty of the interstate commerce commission to issue railroad accident bulletins every three months, three bulletins have been published. The third, covering the months of January, February and March of the present year, has just appeared, and like its two predecessors, which covered the last six months of 1901, it gives figures which are surprising to persons unacquainted with accident statistics in this country, says the New York Sun.

The number of persons killed in railroad accidents during the first quarter of the present year was 212, and the number injured was 2,111. Accidents of other kinds, including those met with by employees while on duty, and by passengers in getting on or off cars, bring the total number of casualties up to 16,215. The total number of persons killed was 664.

The interstate commerce commission has printed an analysis of these accidents which shows that of the total 26 passengers, 95 trainmen, 1 victim, 2 switchmen and 6 general employees were killed in collisions, 15 passengers and 43 employees in derailments, 1 passenger and 21 employees being struck by engines or other trains while on moving tracks and 8 passengers and 121 employees by falling from cars or engines while getting on or off.

The total number of collisions during the three months was 1,290, of which 165 were caused by trains separating. There were 88 derailments from the following causes: 114 from defects in engines, 734 from defects in equipment, 53 from negligence of the trainmen, 10 from accidents and unknown causes, 16 from malicious obstruction of tracks and 206 from miscellaneous causes.

Two hundred and twenty-one of the collisions and 81 of the derailments affected passenger trains and the total loss to the railroad companies from both causes in three months was $1,914,378. Of this amount the loss by collisions was $1,060,921, and by derailments $853,457.

The loss by collisions was January $551,751; February, $607,969; and March, $694,758. The average loss by each collision was $842 and by each derailment, $1,065.

Rear collisions were more prominent during the first quarter of this year than in any other similar period since the commission has been tabulating the railroad accidents of the country. Forty-three accidents of this kind are tabulated in the bulletin and the explanations of them show a wide variety of causes. Here are some of the causes mentioned:

Train approached slower than at uncontrollable speed.

Block signal set at clear when block section was not clear.

Special passenger overtook freight. Weather thick and flagmen could not be seen.

Engineman and brakeman asleep on engine. Fireman did not watch for signal.

Runaway or steep grade.

Failure of an automatic block signal.

Runaway on steep grade of thirty-seven cars, only eight cars air-braked. Crew had been on duty twenty-five hours; three brakemen had had less than three months' experience.

Freight overtook passenger train, which by reason of leaky boiler was losing time and was not protected by flag.

Most of the other rear-end collisions were caused by improper flagging, improper switching, disobedience of orders, inexperienced or overworked train crews and downright carelessness.

Thirty-five brakemen were killed and 550 injured during the quarter, while coupling cars. Accidents of this kind were due almost entirely to defective mechanism and carelessness, although some of the deaths were unavoidable, like those of brakemen who slipped on snow or ice, just as cars were about to be coupled.

Other deaths of employees while getting on or off cars or engines were due to a variety of causes. Many slipped from ice-covered cars, others were thrown off by sudden jerks of the trains, many fell because of defective hand holds and stiff steps, and not a few, in stepping from trains, were caught by the feet in frogs, guard rails and switches and then ran down by other trains.

The railroad casualties during the last three months of last year were even more numerous than those of the first quarter of the present year. They numbered 11,084 and 513 persons were killed. The preceding quarter, July, August, September, 1901, had a still greater accident list. There were 11,213 casualties and 725 persons were killed.

An Interview With Frederick J. Lisman, of New York, Concerning the Expansion of the Detroit Southern.

Conceding the rumored purchase of the old Columbus, Lima & Milwaukee railroad, now the Columbus & Lake Michigan, by the B. & O. people, the Columbus Press says:

"Two parties of Baltimore & Ohio officials were visitors in Columbus, Tuesday afternoon. Vice President and General Manager Green, General Superintendent W. H. Brinson, of the B. & O. S. W., constituted the party that came up from Cincinnati in Mr. Green's private car arriving at 11:30. Mr. Green said the trip was simply made to take a look at the Cincinnati and Columbus formerly the Midland, which was recently turned over to the Southwest system.

During Mr. Green's short stay, a special inspection train came in from the east with Vice President and General Manager G. L. Potter, Superintendent D. D. Corothers, General Superintendent Haas, J. A. Seelman, chief engineer, and Press Agent J. H. Maday on board. The meeting of the officials was unexpected. The latter officials made but a flying trip, leaving for the east again within an hour after their arrival. During their stay they were entertained in Mr. Green's car.

Mr. Maday said the party was simply making an inspection trip over the western lines. They had come out as far as Chicago Junction and then there for Columbus Tuesday morning. The trip was made up of one of the oldest engines in the service, No. 618, which had an inspection engine over its boiler. It also carried seats for the party for the inspection. Two private cars made up the equipment.

It is learned from official sources that the B. & O. contemplates the purchase of the Columbus and Lake Michigan, formerly the Lima and Milwaukee and it is said that the principal object of the party's visit to Ohio was to inspect this line.

It was learned Wednesday that the B. & O. officials have under consideration, in connection with its contemplated purchase of the Columbus and Michigan, an extension of the line from Lima to Columbus.

This extension would give the B. & O. a short line to Chicago by connection with the main line at Defiance. The Columbus and Michigan is constructed between Lima and Defiance.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 28.—A new company to be known as the Cincinnati Indianapolis and Western Railroad company is to be the result of the action taken here today by the stockholders of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Indianapolis in ratifying the proposition to consolidate with the Indiana, Decatur and Western, which was arranged by the directors of the two roads a short time since. The deal is considered one of the most important made in railroad circles in Indiana in a long time.

The mileage of the combined interests will be 342 extending from Hamilton, O., to Springfield, Ill., with the river division extending to Olney, Ill. Added interest is given the merger by the report, apparently from a reliable source, that the new company intends to acquire control of the Cincinnati, Richmond and Muncie, new building, and which will form the shortest line between Cincinnati and Chicago.

N. Y. C. and B. & O. Four.

As was stated by the Times Democrat yesterday, the story comes from New York again that the Big Four is soon to be made a part of the New York Central system, that is to be absorbed by the New York Central. The Big Four is as distinctly a Vanderbilt line as the New York Central, Lake Shore, Michigan Central, West Shore or the other lines in the Vanderbilt system of roads.

The same Big Four merger story has been current at various times during the past year or five years, but it has never passed the rumor stage.

Conceding the rumored purchase of the old Columbus, Lima & Milwaukee railroad, now the Columbus & Lake Michigan, by the B. & O. people, the Columbus Press says:

"Two parties of Baltimore & Ohio officials were visitors in Columbus, Tuesday afternoon. Vice President and General Manager Green, General Superintendent W. H. Brinson, of the B. & O. S. W., constituted the party that came up from Cincinnati in Mr. Green's private car arriving at 11:30. Mr. Green said the trip was simply made to take a look at the Cincinnati and Columbus formerly the Midland, which was recently turned over to the Southwest system.

During Mr. Green's short stay, a special inspection train came in from the east with Vice President and General Manager G. L. Potter, Superintendent D. D. Corothers, General Superintendent Haas, J. A. Seelman, chief engineer, and Press Agent J. H. Maday on board. The meeting of the officials was unexpected. The latter officials made but a flying trip, leaving for the east again within an hour after their arrival. During their stay they were entertained in Mr. Green's car.

Mr. Maday said the party was simply making an inspection trip over the western lines. They had come out as far as Chicago Junction and then there for Columbus Tuesday morning. The trip was made up of one of the oldest engines in the service, No. 618, which had an inspection engine over its boiler. It also carried seats for the party for the inspection. Two private cars made up the equipment.

Uncle Sam's Cotton Crop

HOW THE RECORD YIELD WILL BE HARVESTED

UNLESS all predictions fail the cotton crop of the United States this year will be the largest in the history of the country. Reports from the cotton growing sections indicate that at least 11,500,000 bales will be harvested, an increase of 1,500,000 bales over last year.

Just what this enormous production means to the United States and the world at large is only appreciated by the few who have made a study of the cotton industry. Marketed at moderate prices, it means the prosperity of the planter. It means in addition increased earnings for the railways, increased profits for the manufacturer and decreased cost of living for the consumer, all of which factors contribute to the prosperity of the country at large, to the benefit of the southern states no less than to the consumers of the northern states. The whole country will feel the impact of the increased business due to such conditions.

This enormous crop, it is confidently believed, will produce a net profit of $87,000,000 to the cotton growers of the south. The great crop is not likely to make prices extremely low, as the crop for several years has been below the requirements of the world.

For the last three years English manufacturers have been checked by the scarcity of raw material, and they will doubtless push their mills to full capacity, drawing upon this country for raw cotton.

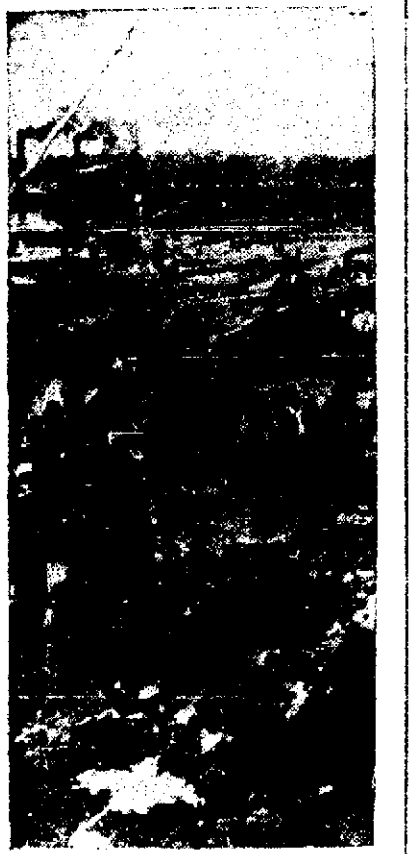

The planter will not be the only one benefited by the great crop, for he will have to employ additional men to handle it, just as he has had to employ additional hands to plant it. Railroads which haul this immense crop to market and the steamboats which carry their part to England will share in the prosperity. American mills will run full time, and additional help must be employed, so that many who have been idle will find work.

It is estimated that 2,000,000 persons will be affected by this mighty cotton crop, and the whole population of the United States and the hundreds of millions in other parts of the world will be indirectly affected by the cotton, clothing and products made from cotton, which is used so largely in the home and business lives of all nations.

The cotton picking season is a time of rejoicing in the entire south. From the 1st of September until after the Christmas fires are lighted cotton is the absorbing topic on the cotton plantation. To the black skinned cotton pickers it means a certain amount of ready cash. To the planter it means the reward of nine months of work, worry and uncertainty. To the country storekeeper it means a boom in business and a liquidation of old indebtedness.

When the streams of English and northern gold begin to flow to Dixie-land, there is happiness in that region, and when it comes in such volume as it is sure to come this year it sets the wheels of enterprise moving and aids in developing the great natural resources of the southern states.

When the cotton is ready for picking, a cotton field presents a beautiful picture. The green stalks have turned brown and seem to have given up all their vitality in producing the fleece that clusters all over them. From a distance the field looks as if there had been a gentle snowfall.

Here and there are groups of negroes, who appear to be up to their armpits in a closer inspection shows that they are at work. The picker has a long stick, and a large hemp bag. It drags on the ground behind as he walks from stalk to stalk. He grasps the cotton boll with his left hand and picks the little bunch of cotton from each of its four sides, keeping this up until he has a handful, when he stoops and puts it into the sack.

Biggest

Beginning at one end of a row, he continues down to the other end, where he finds a large basket, into which he empties the contents of the sack. He keeps this up until it is too dark to see. Each extra hand or each family has one basket, and the contents of this basket are weighed and the pickers paid accordingly.

Down to the present time science and invention have done little to facilitate the gathering of the cotton. The cultivation and harvesting of the fleecy staple are conducted today practically as in the remote ages of history. The only advancement made is in the handling of the cotton after it is gathered. That is the invention of the Yankee Eli Whitney, who invented the cotton gin.

The conditions which confront the would-be inventor of a cotton picking machine seem almost insurmountable. The bolls on the lower part of the stalk ripen first. Then as the stalk grows and throws out buds these gradually ripen until by the middle of December those on the top part of the stalk are ready for picking. If they have not been killed by frost, the machine to pick it must be able to select the ripe bolls and leave unopened all others and besides must not shear the stalk of its leaves or injure the stalk. With such primary requirements it is no wonder that inventive genius has not yet solved the problem.

The cotton gin of today is a far different contrivance from that which Eli Whitney's genius gave to the world. The Whitney principle is there, but so vastly improved and with so many additions as to bear little resemblance to the original. From the time the cotton reaches the gin in the wagon until the bale is ready for tying everything is now done by machinery. It takes 1,500 pounds of seed cotton to make a 500 pound bale of cotton.

Formerly the cost of ginning was an item the cotton planter had to consider in his estimate of the cost of production, but now the seed pays for the ginning.

Until about thirty-five years ago the ginners had a hard task getting rid of the seed. They used to set fire to it or pay to have it hauled away. They gave it to anybody who wanted it and were delighted to be relieved of disposing of it. Today not only the oil is used, but every particle of seed is of commercial value.

In the handling and transportation of cotton a great improvement was made when the compress was introduced. The compress is merely a great, powerful mass of machinery for the squeezing of a bale of cotton into half the size it had been when it left the gin. The compressing of the bale enables transportation lines to carry twice as much cotton per car as could be done in the days before compressing was in vogue.

When the bale leaves the compressor, it is ready for shipment to the north or to Europe. If on the banks of the Mississippi, it is taken by steamer to New Orleans. Here on the levee a crowd of negro constabulary are awaiting to unload it. A negro foreman selects a number of laborers from the crowd clamoring for work. Sacks are run to the levee, and the work of unloading begins.

Cotton hooks jerk the bales to the dory which is to convey them to the ocean steamers awaiting to transfer them to factories perhaps thousands of miles away. They are loaded on floats at the wharf, where the stevedores take them in hand. Here the screwmen, with enormous jack-screws, force the bales into a wonderfully small space, and there they remain until in New York, Liverpool or Havre the cargo is broken, to return again perhaps in the form of cotton fabrics, to be worn by the very persons who planted the cotton.

FUTURE EXPRESS TRAIN

Germany to Make Speed Tests on One of Her Lines.

PRIZES OFFERED FOR BEST DESIGNS

Cars and Locomotive Will Be Incased in a Shell of Sheet Steel—All Superfluous Dead Weight to Be Avoided—Tender Will Carry Only Five Tons of Water.

In a report to the state department at Washington Consul General Frank H. Mason, at Berlin, gives some interesting information about the efforts now being made in Germany to develop high speed on railways. The German Society of Mechanical Engineers has offered a series of prizes for the best design and specifications for an express train capable of carrying 100 passengers and their baggage with personal comfort at a speed of seventy-five miles an hour.

"The purpose of this competition," says Consul General Mason, "is to provide a unit of the equipment for the attainment of greatly accelerated speed in railway travel, which can be adapted to the present state railways of Prussia without the tearing up and relaying of tracks with heavier ties and rails that would be required for rapid electrical service."

"An interesting forecast of the pending competition has been given by Mr. Arthur Kirchhoff, editor of a technical publication in Berlin devoted to engineering and machinery, in which a description is given of certain features of the new locomotives which are to be tested over the Berlin-Zossen line next year. The specifications require that this express engine and train of the future shall be able to maintain for three consecutive hours a speed of 120 kilometers (74.5 miles) an hour, without stopping for water or fuel, and at a minimum expenditure of motive power. Mr. Kirchhoff's outline of how this is to be done will have a definite interest to American engineers."

"During the experiments of last autumn an attempt was made to determine as accurately as possible the waste of power entailed by the friction and resistance of air to railway trains at different rates of speed. It was found that while at a speed of 80 kilometers (50 miles) per hour this resistance on a still day was about 22 kilograms (48.5 pounds) per square meter of the surface of the front end of the car the rate increased very rapidly with the augmentation of speed, so that at a pace of 150 kilometers (93.7 miles) the resistance rose to 75 kilograms (165 pounds) per square meter of impinging surface. Every projecting part, every window, door or other indentation which could form a pocket to catch the wind created by such high velocities, increased the resistance to be overcome, so that in all future experiments the economy of rapid transit will require that the factor of air resistance shall be taken into careful account."

This, according to Mr. Kirchhoff, is to be done by enveloping the engine and train, from pilot to rear platform, in a shell of sheet steel, jointed so as to secure flexibility in passing curves and so constructed as to inclose the locomotive and cars in a continuous tube, uniform throughout in size and presenting no projecting irregularity which shall catch the resisting air. The front of the engine will be pointed or wedge shaped, the sheath will inclose as far as possible the running gear of the cars, and even the wheels of both engine and cars will be closed disks of metal instead of, as now, spoked wheels with openings to catch the air."

Another interesting fact mentioned by Consul General Mason is that recent experiments at Zossen demonstrated that electric motors when worked at a high rate of speed were a greater strain on the roadbed than steam locomotives. This is said to be due to the fact that the center of gravity in the electric engines hangs much lower than in the steam engines.

The new locomotive will rest on twelve wheels—namely, two pairs of drivers located at the middle of the machine, with a four wheeled pivot truck in front and rear. Upon these three points of support the boiler and superstructure will be hung upon springs, adjusted to take up as far as practicable the inevitable vibration and oscillation.

The engine will be of the compound type, with three cylinders, two connected outside and the third hung at the center and connected inside, working upon a mid-axle crank set at 90 degrees from the crank pin of the two outside cylinders, which are set opposite each other. The boiler will have an interior heating surface of 200 square meters. Superfluous dead weight will be avoided. The new tender will take only five tons of water, and that en route, as on some American lines. The new engine will have a coal consumption of 2,352 pounds per effective horsepower per hour.

Canadian Apples For Great Britain.
A million barrels of apples is the order which one dealer of Belleville, Canada, received from an English house, and he has started buyers out to get the goods, says the Boston Transcript. The significance of this can be seen when it is remembered that a million barrels of apples would in most seasons in the past equal nearly the whole of Canada's export. This order is, therefore, far and away in excess of any order ever received before by a Canadian dealer. G. C. Crowl, man, superintendent of farmers' institutes, who has been traveling through the province lately, reports that there will be a good crop of apples in all sections.

FOR LITTLE FOLKS

THE MYSTERIOUS TUMBLER

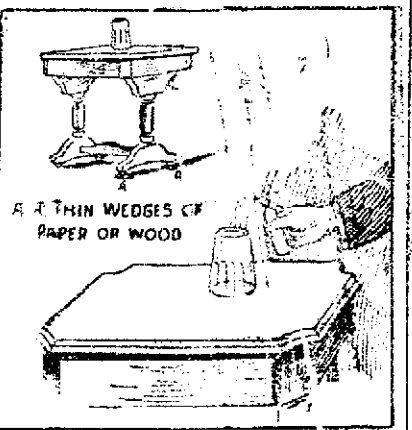

A Simple Trick That May Be Performed by Any Boy or Girl.

The boy or girl who can perform a clever feat in magic or make a neat experiment in physics is always considered an acquisition to a company and is popular accordingly. Besides, the performance of the feat or the making of the experiment is sure to give the boy himself a good deal of pleasure.

Here is a little experiment that is mysterious enough to those that witness it to seem like magic, and yet it simply is an illustration of a well known principle of natural philosophy. All you need to make the experiment is a marble top table, such as may be found in any parlor or sitting room; a glass tumbler and a piece of candle.

You first put under the two legs at one end of the table thin wedges of wood or paper, to give the table a very slight incline in the direction of the other end. If you wish to make the feat all the more mysterious, you should put the wedges under the legs when the company is not looking.

Now take a plain glass tumbler and moisten the rim carefully so that the water will stick to it or at least enough it to make a thin coating of moisture. Place the tumbler, rim down, on the end of the table where the wedges are, and it will not move, for the incline, if you have not made the wedges too thick, will not be great enough to make the tumbler move by gravity.

But you are going to make this tumbler move of itself so that it will seem to do so by some magic power. To do this lift the piece of candle and hold it near the tumbler for a few moments. The heat from the candle will cause the air in the tumbler to expand, and this expansion will have the effect of raising the tumbler just a little from the smooth marble. The candle cannot escape, however, because the water around the rim of the tumbler keeps it in.

Then the tumbler will begin to move slowly about the marble top, for the slight elevation that the expanded air has given it makes it now rest on a thin layer of moisture, and it glides down the incline by the force of gravity.

A Two Story Nest.
A very curious bird's nest, a preserved at Salem, in Massachusetts, in which state the novelty was found. The story of the nest is very interesting.

The cow hunting of that section never builds a nest, but the female bird lays her eggs in the nests of those birds which feed their young on insects. In the case in question a cow-bunting left an egg in the nest of a sparrow, in which was one egg of the latter. When the sparrow returned, she saw that an intruder had been there. She remembered that she had one egg and no more, and three before her were two. What was to be done? She consulted with her mate, and finally they hit upon a plan of action. They built a bridge of straw and hair directly over the two eggs, making a second story in the home and thus leaving the two eggs below out of the reach of the wariness of her body. In the upper apartment she laid four eggs, and raised her brood. When the sparrows left the nest it was taken down, with the two eggs still in it, and preserved as a curiosity.

A Miniature Oak Tree.
If an acorn be suspended by a piece of thread within half an inch of the surface of some water contained in a hyacinth glass and so permitted to remain without being disturbed, it will in a few months burst and throw a root down into the water and shoot upward its straight and tapering stem, with beautiful little green leaves.

A young oak tree growing in this way is a very interesting object. A chestnut may be treated in the same manner. The water must be changed sufficiently often to afford these trees the necessary quantity of nourishment from the matter contained in it.

The Brave Robin.
The most singular instance that I have known of a robin's fearlessness was the kind of military instinct which some years ago led a pair to make their nest at the back of a target at Aldershot. It was in the shooting range of the Fourth battalion of the Sixtieth rifles, and the colonel of the regiment told me of it at the time. The little pair paid not the least attention to the shots thundering on the target just at the back of their nest. The soldiers were careful not to meddle with them, and the young brood hatched and were brought up in safety.—Corbhill.

TOLD OF GENERAL SIGEL.

Orator of Famous Expressions Associated with the Gallant Soldier.

The recent death of that gallant old German soldier, General Franz Sigel, recalls one of the pleasantest that had a while dramatization during the strenuous days of the civil war.

The general was very earnest, brave and capable, but he and his troops caused one of the first laughs of the war. When asked who they were fighting for, his raw recruits replied, "We fight mit Sigel." And the expression "I fight mit Sigel, and I trunks mit you," caused a roar of laughter throughout the north. They were good soldiers, however, and the war cry "We fight mit Sigel!" was soon a common expression that meant much more than an ordinary witicism.

This expression is interestingly embodied in the following poem by Grant P. Robinson in "Anecdotes, Poetry and Incidents of the Civil War."

"I FIGHTS MIT SIGEL!"
I met him again, he was trudging along, His knapsack with chickens was swelling;
He'd "blenkered" these dainties, and thought it so wrong,
From supper and supper, dwelling,
"What's your army's yours?" and under whose flag?
"You fight?" said I, touching his shoulder;
Turning slowly around he smilingly said,
For the thought made him stronger and bolder,
"I fight mit Sigel!"

The next time I saw him his knapsack was empty and content were missing. His cap, sword and straps, and the swift glances, Around him and then he was bustling. How are you my friend, and where have you been?
And for what and for whom are you fighting?
He said, as a ball from the enemy's gun sent his arm and his shoulder a "blenker,"
"I fight mit Sigel!"

And once more I saw him and knew by his side,
His knapsack was rapidly swelling;
I whispered of some wife, children, and friends,
The bright light to which he was going at home.

The "wee one" the father or mother? "That's jaw!" said he, "I'd them all tell them, I fight!"
"Good-bye!" he thought of no other—"I fight mit Sigel!"

We scraped up a grave, and he dream-lessly sleeps.
On the banks of the Shenandoah River, His home and his kindred alike are unknown.
His sword in the hands of the Green, We stored in rough board at the head of his grave.
"And we left him alone in his story," But on it we marked the spot we turned from the spot.
The folk we knew of his story—"I fight mit Sigel!"

WORK

Set Out For the Juries.

The Fall Term

Offers Some Interesting Criminal Trials

And the Prosecutor Will Have a Long Session With Grand Jury.

Names Will be Drawn a Week From Monday, But Court Does Not Open for Business Until October 6th.

A week from next Monday, Sheriff Barr and the county clerk will give the jury wheel a few extra revolutions, and from its inner recess bring to light some of the names that have been undisturbed since the last term of court.

Two days, the grand and petit will be drawn, the former composed of fifteen and the latter of twelve members of the county. The grand jury will meet on the day court opens for the fall term, Monday, October 6, and the petit jury two weeks later.

There was very little work for the grand jury at its last session, but the fall term will be different as the criminal cases have been piling up, and aside from a well-stocked jail there are nearly a score of persons out on bond who are enjoying only temporary liberty. Whether or not they will be brought to trial remains for the grand jury to decide.

Several of the prisoners are of the desperate class as much so that sheriff Barr has refused to conduct visitors, who have nothing more than curiosity to satisfy, through the jail. Those now occupying cells are the following:

Harry Thompson, burglary, confined since April 25.

Ed. Donahue, burglary and larceny, June 7.

John O'Brien, murder, June 13. Mike Johnson and Geo. Summers held as witnesses in the case.

Wm. Lark, runaway robbery at the fair grounds, July 21.

Charles Potter, burglary, July 25. Thomas H. Lyons, petit larceny, July 25.

Harvey D. Spencer, larceny, Aug. 14. Cooney Pearson, grand larceny, Aug. 21.

Among those who are out on bond are: M. P. Oeman, burglary; W. C. Ford, burglary and carrying concealed weapons; Henry Henderson, burglary; J. R. Coats, carrying concealed weapons; Pat Bruno, burglary and larceny; Walter Randolph, getting money under false pretenses; Mel Boop, burglary and Harry Richmond, larceny.

To examine into all of these cases it is expected that the jury will be occupied the greater part of two weeks and that over 400 witnesses will be subpoenaed.

Ready for Business.
Judge Cunningham has entered on his work without much loss of time and will be at his private office in the court house every day to transact such business as the attorneys might have that needs immediate attention. Aside from placing his signature to bills of exceptions, he has not been called upon, but may preside a week from today in the injunction suit against the Benz block, should Judge Mathers of Sidney decide not to come. The motion for a temporary injunction was to have been heard by Judge Armstrong last Saturday, but there were several other matters preceding it, which consumed the afternoon.

Marriage Licenses.

Clinton C. Hill, 26, and Jessie S. Knott, 24, both of Lima.

George L. Weber, 21, of Wapakoneta and Emma Halmann, 23, of Monroe township.

CHAIRMAN DICK

Declares Himself in Favor of a New Constitution.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 28.—IN AN INTERVIEW WITH THE TIMES-DEMOCRAT CORRESPONDENT TODAY, CHAIRMAN DICK DECLARED IN FAVOR OF A CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION. HE SAID: THE DECISION OF THE SUPREME COURT AND OTHERS IS EXPECTED TO SHOW THAT WE HAVE OUTGROWN THE CONSTITUTION AND THE TIME IS RIPE FOR A CONVENTION TO FRAME A MEASURE SUITED TO OUR PROGRESS AND DEVELOPMENT. THE OLD CONSTITUTION NO LONGER NEEDS OUR DEMANDS. THE ONLY SOLUTION OF THE PRESENT PROBLEMS IS A NEW CONSTITUTION.

SENATOR

Critics Will Try to Have the Law Repealed.

Senator S. D. Critch, of this district, has sent out information that he has prepared a bill for the repeal of the act of May 7, releasing the railroad companies from lighting the street crossings with arc lights. He states that great effort will be made to continue the work of the special session of the legislature now on the Koyler bill and the municipal code bill, but it is hoped that such an agreement will be reached. Senator Critch's bill amends the law so that it reads the same as it did before being changed last May, compelling the railroad companies to pay for electric arc lights over crossings and bridges.

THE JOLER.

Tiffin Man Wins the Belt.

A very unusual feat of engineering was carried out successfully in this city yesterday, says a dispatch from Tiffin. The sewer at the American Strawboard works had become clogged and it seemed that it would be necessary to dig it up. One of the workmen was struck with an idea and secured a large mullet and noose a long fishing line to his tail, placed it at the entrance of the sewer and turned a strong stream of water on the animal. The turtle started off carrying the line along. At the next manhole the turtle was given another start and soon completed the entire distance of the sewer, a quarter of a mile in length. By the fish line a wire was drawn through the sewer and a swab placed on the end. The sewer was successfully flushed.

WORDS

In a Ceremony

That Ended Criminal Assault Case.

Ed. Searl Marries the Girl He Was Charged With Assaulting.

Father of Miss Searl Declined to Insist on Prosecution and Searl and Rollins Were Discharged.

Mayor Rogers returned home from a visit to Findlay yesterday afternoon, and half an hour later brought Edward Searl before him, not for the purpose of sending the prisoner to jail, but to make him the husband of Effie Bruden, on account of whom he was arrested Monday night.

As stated in last night's Times-Democrat, the girls father secured a license on the promise of Searl to marry the girl and the ceremony was only postponed long enough to await the return of his Honor. The Mayor consented to release Searl on the conditions named, and the ceremony was performed in Attorney Howard Williamson's office.

The charges against the groom and L. A. Rollins were then withdrawn as the girls father, who was the complainant, was better satisfied with the turn of events than he would have been to push the prosecution. Searl is a switchman on the C. H. & D., and now that he has made atonement for his offense, will return to his job.

VICTIM

Of Snakes Escaped From the County Infirmary.

Was Found in the City and Was Again Lodged Behind the Bars at the Police Station.

Yesterday the police turned over to the county infirmary directors, a man named Rosenborough, who recently came here from Chicago, and who was suffering from the effects of excessive indulgence in whiskey. The man was given medical attention and was taken to the county infirmary. During the night, he escaped from the infirmary and returned to the city, and was locked up by officer Grant, of the police force, Grant and Bilstin.

THE STAGE.

Merry Chas. A. (Karl) Gardner, comes to us again with Lincoln J. Carter's superbly mounted comedy drama, "The Darkest Hour." The play has been written to especially suit Mr. Gardner's talents, and polished off with the scenic and mechanical effects for which Mr. Carter is noted. One effect is a full sized train which leaves the front of the stage, rounding a curve, and passing over a bridge and passing by the audience. It is said to be Mr. Carter's crowning effort and should be seen to be appreciated when the company appears at the Fauto Opera House, tomorrow evening at popular prices.

With a wealth of scenery, acres of comedy, a mine of sentiment and a golden title, "A Millionaire Tramp" possesses a lever that opened the way to the tremendous success it now enjoys, and no one seems to begrudge it, for according to our exchanges, the play and company are giving more thorough satisfaction than any that has played this section in recent years. The date for the attraction at Fauto's Opera House, next Saturday, Aug. 30, matinee and evening at popular prices.

The Lords day school of the Wayne street church of Christ, will picnic at McCullough Lake, Friday afternoon. All friends of the school invited to enjoy the afternoon with us.

Committee.

CAUGHT

Again at Her Same Old Tricks.

Notorious Clara Norris is Again in Trouble

Having Harbored a Fourteen-Year-Old Girl in a Den She Conducts at Marion, Indiana.

The notorious Clara Norris, who is perhaps one of the best known of the professional demi-monde in this section of the state, and who has given the police no end of trouble wherever she chanced to be located, is now trying to break into the Indiana penitentiary. It has only been a few weeks ago since she was compelled to leave Marion, Ind., where she had gone after leaving Van Wert, for an attempt to procure a misguided girl on an interurban car between Marion and Anderson. Her latest escapade is told of in the following dispatch from Marion:

Miss Lida Rawlins, fourteen years old, daughter of M. and Mrs. John Rawlins, was found in a house at Elwood at 2:20 o'clock, this morning, by her father, who had been searching for her since Saturday morning in Anderson and Muncie, assisted by the police of those cities. Miss Rawlins alleges that a married man and a single man of this city persuaded her to go to Elwood, where she could live a life of ease, wear fine clothes and jewels, return home later and be well respected. She said she was met at Elwood by the young man, who gave her instructions as to what to do, and say when she went to the house. She said that when she entered she was met by Clara Norris. The woman asked her age, and when told, instructed her to tell the police and any other person who she met that she was twenty; also to assume another name and not to tell that she ever lived in Marion.

RICHARDS

Takes Hold of the Hamilton Y. M. C. A.

Charles J. Richards, of Lima, physical director of the local Y. M. C. A. arrived in this city Tuesday afternoon, says the Hamilton Republican. With the coming of the director came a revival of "arm fever" among the boys, and yesterday and today basketball was the topic most discussed around the Y. M. C. A. building. The gym program will be changed materially this year, so far as regards the practice of the basketball teams. It is understood now that but two nights a week will be devoted to basketball. This will give more time for general work and more people will be benefited.

TOLEDO

End of the Lima Contractor's Loss.

Nothing Heard from the Big Sum of Money

Although Mr. Smith's Offered a Reward of $50 to a Person Honest Enough to Return it.

Concerning the loss to contractor E. E. Smith, of Lima, who was the victim of a member of the light fingered gang at Toledo yesterday, according to a dispatch published in the Times-Democrat last night, the Toledo Blade contains the following account:

E. E. Smith, a Lima carpenter and contractor, is the latest man to come to town with a wad of money and lose it. He appeared at the police station this morning in a state of great excitement, and informed Sergeant Casey that he had lost $750 and he did not know whether he had been robbed or the money fell from his pocket.

Detective Tom O'Brien took the case and to him Smith related the circumstances of his loss. He said that this morning he had $300 in an old red wallet that he carried in his left hip-pocket, where he supposed it was absolutely safe. The money was in bills, four of the denomination of $100 and eight of $50. On Summit street, in the neighborhood of Jackson avenue, he stopped in a store and bought a silk skirt for his daughter, paying $11 for it. For this payment, he tendered one of the $50 bills and received his change in small bills and silver, which he placed in a purse in another trousers pocket. Then he took a stroll down to the docks and less than an hour later stopped at the Toledo Savings Bank and Trust Company to change his pocketful of silver for bills. Then he discovered that his pocket-book containing the $750, had disappeared. He went back over his route, but found no clue to the missing money.

Smith said that he was carrying this money for the purpose of making payments on lumber which he was here to buy. When the detectives asked him why he did not do his business by means of checks, Smith answered that he had not been a contractor long, and was not familiar with business forms. His custom was to draw his money to make payments in cash. Smith was also much astonished when informed by O'Brien that the hip-pocket is a very unsafe place to carry money.

FUNERAL

Of Lewis Baumgardner to be Held Tomorrow.

The funeral of Lewis Baumgardner, aged 9 years, 11 months and 21 days, son of John Baumgardner, of Elida, will be held from the U. B. church in that village at 10 o'clock Friday morning. Rev. Holmes will conduct the funeral and interment will be made in Greenlawn cemetery. Inflammation of bowels was the cause of the youths death.
